Overseas Expert Column by Bill Esdaile

The G1 Al Quoz Sprint is a lightning dash down the straight 1,200m turf course and has proved a good race for the older horses in the speed division.

However, it might still be worth taking on the two 3YO fillies, STAR OF MYSTERY and FROST AT DAWN this year.

STAR OF MYSTERY remains highly-rated by her connections, even though she was beaten comprehensively by FROST AT DAWN here on Super Saturday over 1,000m. The faster the early gallop the better for STAR OF MYSTERY, who has won three of her five races over this longer trip and is sure to be doing all her best work at the finish.

French ace Mickael Barzalona, who was riding FROST AT DAWN for the first time, was impressed, and this filly had been beaten by head over 1,200m in her previous race, he reckoned that she would travel even better back over this trip.

I always like a more streetwise sprinter for these cavalry charges, and locally-trained DANYAH knows every blade of grass around here. The versatile 7YO is improving with age and won this sprint last year, the first time he had raced over 1,200m since his juvenile days. And DANYAH has produced two solid runs this season over 1,400m here. He was arguably a bit unlucky when a close third from a bad draw last time and has clearly been brought along steadily with a repeat success very much in mind.

DILIGENT HARRY's seven wins have all been on the polytrack, but he was only pipped in a photo in a G3 race on turf at Newbury over 1,200m last summer. It was 995m when he won his prep-race for this on tapeta at Southwell, but he has won five times over this 1,200m, a trip which suits him better.

Top American trainer William Mott has a smart sprinter in CASA CREED, who is a four-time winner at the top level. However, two of those victories were over 1,600m, and he might be taken off his legs in such a fast-run race. Remember, he could finish only fifth in this race two years ago, but he is another who will be doing all his best work late on.

A Japanese challenger in a race they are yet to win. A winner over a rare straight track in Japan is positive, and not beaten far – after leading – in a 1200m G3 on the dirt at Riyadh last month.

In great shape in France last year and gained a G1 victory on very soft ground over 1300m at Deauville. Decent efforts at Meydan and Riyadh this year, but unlikely to be quite quick enough.

Likely to try to lead from the gates, tactics that saw him win here in December and later finish second in a 1000m G2. A well-travelled and smart speedster but a few others look preferred.
