Overseas Expert Column by Bill Esdaile

The race run over the same course and distance as the Derby Stakes. The weather forecast is changeable at Epsom, so it will pay to side with horses who are able to handle a variety of going descriptions.

IF NOT NOW is a horse who's shown plenty of ability in his lightly raced career. He won on debut, before bumping into future Royal Ascot winner GREGORY on his next start, and then followed that with an impressive seven-length win at Sandown on handicap debut over 1,990m. His trainer Ralph Beckett considered him talented enough to contest the 2023 G1 Deutsches Derby on his next start, where he was a respectable fifth. Things haven't quite gone to plan for him since, but the course at Epsom should suit, so expect him to run well.

Epsom form is worth its weight in gold in a race like this, so ZIGGY should be on the shortlist given his strong run at the track in April. Trained by Harry Eustace, this gelding hasn't been overly faced in his career, and while he hasn't been a regular winner, he could have a big say in a race like this with his track experience.

RELENTLESS VOYAGER looks an unexposed type for the Andrew Balding team. He broke his maiden in fine style at Kempton last March and followed that with a number of strong runs in much deeper waters. Most notably, he ran better than the formbook suggests when sixth behind future G1 winner KING OF STEEL at Royal Ascot. These are much calmer waters and having had a nice pipe opener at Newmarket last time out, he is of interest with Oisin Murphy booked to ride.

When it comes to Epsom form, FLASH BARDOT is another runner who catches the eye. She has one run at the track, which resulted in victory over this trip, and looks like she handles the unique configuration well. Since then, she's gone up in the weights considerably, but also having shown a liking for ground with soft in the description, she should be able to operate whichever way the ground goes.

KOTARI arrives here looking to land a remarkable four-timer. This horse had spent much of his career running over jumps, but his trainers Gary and Josh Moore have clearly found his niche back on the Flat. He has risen up the handicap sharply as a result of his hat-trick, but looks capable of more here, potentially hitting the frame.

On a winning roll, successful in all three flat turf starts this year latterly when too strong for 13 rivals over 2392m at Ascot. Hiked another 5lb in the handicap but still formidable.

Having a busy time this being his tenth start of 2024, including four all-weather wins. Not yet fully proven at this trip and looks to have a challenging handicap mark.
