Overseas Expert Column by Bill Esdaile

This intriguing 2,400m G3 could be set for export as Newmarket raider KLONDIKE seems poised to produce a big effort for William Haggas. Haggas does not have many runners in Ireland, but what he does send over deserves respect and KLONDIKE is a horse he has long held in high regard. Befitting the trainer's approach, the 4YO has not been over-raced, which could be paying off. A solid fourth in a 2,400m York handicap on his return this year, the son of GALILEO then won a 2,800m Listed race at York before flopping over that distance in a G3 at the same venue next time. That was an off day and the largely consistent colt was back to form with a career-best in a Deauville G3 over 2,500m most recently.

Dermot Weld has landed this race five times since 2014 and must possess claims of another victory with SUMIHA. A winner over 2,000m on her debut last year, she was second in Listed races at Cork and the Curragh over 2,400m before winning a G3 at the former track over the same distance in June. That form appears strong and there must be more to come from her.

TRUSTYOURINSTINCT is another to consider despite him running over hurdles earlier in the year. He was decent at that, but gave the impression he would be better suited to Flat racing again and was second to JAN BRUEGHEL in a Curragh G3 in June. Last month he went down to CONTINUOUS in another Curragh G3 and should be suited stepping up to 2,400m from the 2,000m those races took place over.

The Mrs John Harrington-trained KINESIOLOGY is a likeable, potential improver as well and merits closer inspection despite losing a Listed race at Leopardstown over 2,800m on his last start. He bumped a rival late on so was demoted to second, but that may have been a harsh decision and coming back to 2,400m could be a plus given the way he wandered around towards the finish.

Like Weld, Aidan O'Brien has had success in this – four victories since 2018 – so it could pay to consider EUPHORIC for the master trainer. He has been used as a pacemaker lately, but a close second to stablemate and leading Irish Champion Stakes player LOS ANGELES in a Leopardstown G3 over 2,000m in May reads well.

Best over this trip and on slow ground. Prominent throughout when winning a Listed event in April. May have found the ground too quick last time.

Deserves respect for his trainer's fine record in this. Has been a pacemaker for stable stars in G1's, fading out late when things got serious.

Narrow defeats in Listed company on his last three starts, including twice here. Finished first but demoted to second last start here. A tough colt and probably still improving.

A maiden race winner over this trip in Japan on debut. Didn't appear to progress in stronger company after. Hard to assess.
