Overseas Expert Column by Brett Davis

ALDOLFITO won his first race down the Flemington straight over 1,000m before heading to Sandown at his next start, where he made it two from two. He then struck a heavy track at Caulfield and notably over raced during the early stages before finding congestion in the run down the home stretch. There'll be pace to run at in this event and he's drawn ideally out wide, so expect him to join in later stages and make it count.

DAMEHOOD justified her short quote first up at Ballarat by taking out the prize with relative ease under Craig Williams. She now heads to a straight track debut with plenty of opposing depth but I like the fact they're backing her in. She'll be looking for cover early on before edging in to the clear through the second half and I'm confident she'll hold her own.

LAST DRUID has been freshened up for this assignment but residual fitness is available to call upon if required. He's tactically versatile, with more race experience than most, and importantly has James McDonald to ride. He'll be near the outside rail and is expected to race handy with the straight 1,000m appearing within his range.

VERSAILLE is one win from one start to this point with her victory coming in similar style to that of DAMEWOOD. She's had a good rest following that win on a soft track and her work leading in appears sound. The low draw won't help, but she's got her fair share of talent, and I'm hoping that allows her to run a big race.

DUBLIN DOWN is twice a G3 winner from eight attempts which shouldn't be taken for granted, despite the big weight. He's going to be pressured early, and may end up in the inferior part of the track, but his class is already rightfully established. Zac Purton takes the ride for the astute McEvoy yard and we know that means he'll be given every chance.

NEWFOUNDLAND has made quite an impression in Sydney since arriving from Europe and he's ready to make it three wins in succession. The son of DEEP IMPACT has plenty of racing ahead of him in Australia and this is a race where he can flex some muscle. He's been perfectly prepared by Gai Waterhouse and Adrian Bott and is expected to make an immediate impact during the Melbourne spring.

AHURIRI made noticeable improvement behind NEWFOUNDLAND at Warwick Farm recently which is a really good sign. She won the VRC ST Ledger over this track and trip in April and she's on the right path to backing that up. A good draw and economical run in transit is exactly what she'll receive with Damien Lane taking the ride, so she's seen as a serious player for the win.

WHISKEY ON THE HILL contest the G3 Bendigo Cup at his most recent run but wasn't quite able to get the job done. His form prior was excellent, after winning two races in succession at Caulfield, and it's anticipated he's ready to bounce back. He's officially untried over the journey of 2,800m but the former European galloper should have any problems covering that additional ground.

CALL ME VEXATIOUS has enjoyed a career defining campaign under South Australian trainer Nicole Irwin and should be included in exotic discussions. He's a fully furnished stayer these days and a winner of three of his past five starts so there won't be any fitness concerns. Running 2,800m strongly at this level is an area of concern but he races handy to the speed and doesn't like to give in.

STEEL BLAZE was quite competitive in the G3 St Ledger at Randwick in October and is now looking for the distance of 2,800m. He hasn't been a prolific winner in his career but he's a good honest contributor nearly every time he goes around. A light weight, big spacious track and long home straight give him the opportunity to work in to the finish at big odds.

SELECTIONS: 10. NEWFOUNDLAND, 15. AHURIRI, 7. WHISKEY ON THE HILL, 11. CALL ME VEXATIOUS & 16. STEEL BLAZE

Overseas Expert Column by Brett Davis

APULIA was excellent first up at Moonee Valley over 1,500m after a long winter spell and must be respected up in trip. Last year VRC Derby runner up didn't fire during his autumn preparation but he appears back to his old self this time in. He should secure a lovely run in behind a genuine and necessary speed which shall allow him to show his class at the end. There's always hesitation backing stayers second up but this stable is capable of ironing those potential issues out.

ARRAN BAY shall be forced to roll forward from the wide gate but that shouldn't bother him too much. He generally enjoys being in amongst the action early before flattening for the run home at full pelt. His effort when second recently in the listed Sale Cup was a perfect example of his tenacious approach, so he can't be overlooked.

MAKRAM is a three-time winner at Flemington and ready to perform near his best fourth run up. He's a query at the distance, however, he found the line quite well over the shorter trip at Sale recently in the Cup. Craig Williams is riding in scintillating form at the moment and they've had plenty of experience together in the past.

EARL OF TYRONE hasn't done much racing over the last few years but you wouldn't have realised it following his excellent return in the listed Seymour Cup. It was his first Australian start and jockey Ethan Brown made full use of the inside draw to power home along the rail. He's draw well again and can only be further improve on his European form, with the step up in distance a plus.

CAFE MILLENIUM heads to Melbourne for his down south debut after a solid closing third at Randwick last start. He hasn't won for a while and this might be out of his depth but he's moving well in the mornings and ready to win. Star Sydney apprentice Zac Lloyd takes the reins from an inside gate and for those reasons alone, he goes in.

BUCKAROO is in career best form and another fantastic opportunity arises for former Hong Kong Champion jockey Joao Moreira to win the G1 Melbourne Cup. The former French galloper picked up his first Australian G1 win in the Underwood Stakes over 1,800m, and he achieved it with a powerful turn of foot. With Joao Moreira again behind the wheel in the G1 Caulfield Cup he charged home from out of the pack, but narrowly went down to DUKE DE SESSA on a genuine leaders bias track. Running out a strong 3,200m is a challenge for many, and he's certainly part of that discussion, but all other factors point towards a victory in the great race.

VAUBAN arrived in Australia last year with a strong wrap from Europe but didn't fire after starting favourite and covering ground in Australia's great race. This time around, the 7YO arrives with a more seasoned record on the flat following a G2 win at York, and a gallant second in the recent G1 Irish St Ledger at the Curragh. We all know the northern hemisphere stayers are superior to those bred in Australia, so he's very deserving of his opportunity to atone. He's settled in well and there's no reason to suspect he won't run a better race.

ONESMOOTHOPERATOR really had the Australian media and punters talking following his awesome destruction of the field in the G3 Geelong Cup over 2,400m. The Brian Ellison trained 7YO also ran in the Ebor Handicap at York where he fished seventh, right alongside SEA KING who finished sixth. This fellow is proven over the 3,200m with a win and multiple placings, primarily on synthetic tracks, completed in the past. He's well-seasoned and trained on exceptionally well under the rays of the bright Australian spring sun.

ZARDOZI was involved in a fascinating battle against LAND LEGEND in the G1 Metropolitan a month ago but ultimately came off second best. The margin at the end was only slender and importantly last year's G1 Victorian Oaks winner is now peaking for this coveted blue ribbon event. She's one of only a half dozen winning chances in this year's addition of the G1 Melbourne Cup, and superbly weighted as a previous G1 winner at the track.

SEA KING was extremely impressive at his first Australian performance where he effortlessly blitzed a solid field in the Bendigo Cup over 2,400m. The 6YO son by SEA THE STARS ran a solid and competitive race in the Ebor Handicap at York, prior to heading down under, which is a renowned form reference for any future staying race. A change of scenery, race track and far more superior opposition are now on the table to overcome, but it's sounding like there's ample confidence around.

BOSUSTOW can't be too quickly dismissed in this listed race for the 3YO's and he'll be sent out at double figure price. The top weight and wide barrier look ugly on paper, but with plenty of early speed right across the draw he'll snag back and then be produced late. His effort recently in the G3 Red Anchor Stakes was a quality performance on the day and I expect him to run a solid race.

BIG SWINGER has only been to the races twice and comfortably won both provincial events at Ballarat. It's another top class ride for jockey Craig Williams and the pair are on the cusp of making it three from three. This is a different assignment and new challenge ahead today however and I think he'll handle it well, but I'm prepared to shop for value with the proven class.

EXTREMELY HARDYS has blistering gate speed and the Sydney 3YO filly is expected to jump and run at pace. She's drawn to push up comfortably from gate 3 which shall allow her to absorb the environment and big spacious track. What she'll have to offer at this level for the first time remains the unanswered question, but I don't think she'll throw in the towel to quick.

KOMODO DRAGON is another Sydney filly with scope to run well and again the low draw appears key. James McDonald has interestingly dropped off to ride BOSUSTOW, but that appears due to the light weight. Nevertheless, she's done little wrong in her five start career and she'll love the reduction in weight.

CHEWING GUM performed nicely at her two opening runs where she won first up at Geelong before placing at Sandown. However, it's was her run at Caulfield that caught the eye when she rocketed home from a long way back. Her recently exposed turn of foot suggested she might be something special, so I'd be paying her a decent amount of respect.

MISS ARIA hasn't missed a top four finish in her last ten starts which highlights her impeccable depth and consistency. She can sometimes race handy, but prefers to settle back, before unleashing her explosive turn of power and speed. Her recent form out of the G2 Tristarc Stakes is near the best competing in this event, with her run prior over this track and trip a career high performance.

AVIATRESS announced herself as an exciting progressive talent last start with a comprehensive win in the G3 Northwood Plume Stakes at Caulfield over 1,200m. With an overall win strike rate of five wins from ten starts it's clear that she's risen to an entirely new level. With previous experience at famous Flemington already under her hat she's likely to be right in the hunt again, despite the rise in trip.

FANCIFY is in the top echelon of lightly race horses competing in South Australia and she's ready to step up to this class. She's already a previous winner over this exact course and distance when she won a BM78 race for mares in June. She's tactically versatile, but proven to be most effective when she can lead, and if given too much control in front could make the opposition pay.

COMRADE ROSA came to Melbourne from Brisbane in July in preparation for a long prosperous spring campaign. She's already partaken in three Melbourne events and gradually improved with experience and comfort each time. Her recent third behind UNCLE BRYN and PLENTY OF AMMO at Flemington was an excellent run in defeat, and a potent form reference ever since.

MOLLYNICKERS has been out of the winners list for quite a while but she appears to have returned in good form. Her two runs back this campaign have been solid and inconclusive, particularly last start, after she was badly held up at the 300m point in the straight. She'll go around a double figure price but she's a viable option for exotics.

MARBLE ARCH got to far back last start at Caulfield when it was extremely difficult to make any ground. Her win prior at Morphettville in South Australia was however explosive, when she settled at the tail early before swooping with a rush from down back. She possesses plenty of quality so be aware of her presence, because we haven't seen the best of her yet.

WARNIE made the trip from Ireland to Australia during the last twelve months and he didn't let anyone down first up. He settle mid-field over the 1,200m before chugging home with venom through the later stages to impressively score. He'll be better for the run along with the step up in trip to 1400m, so it'll be exciting to see what he brings.

RHEINBURG can push up and hold a position early which creates his chance to box seat in the run. He's best when kept fresh and that's exactly where he's at following a tough run of the track last start. He's a five time winner over this particular distance and the man who's riding needs no introduction to the show.

IS IT ME shall require a good pace to do her thing but with the long home straight on offer she'll have time to gather speed. She's proven at 1,400m and has a great association with rider Celine Gaudray which should stand for plenty in the end. It's her first crack at this level, which is the ultimate challenge, but it's expected she'll stand up and perform.

MERIDIUS got along way back first up at Caulfield but the run was still most encouraging in defeat. He's a winner previously over this course and trip and must be considered with his outstanding record second up. A wide draw and possible lack of pace maybe go against him but he'll be hitting the line hard nevertheless.

Track Analysis by Brett Davis

Flemington Racecourse

Flemington Racecourse is the headquarters for racing in the city of Melbourne and is located approximately six kilometres from the city's CBD. As a racecourse, it's renowned for its vast expanses and long home straight, by Australian racing standards, which in theory means that every horse gets their opportunity to win there. Racing anti-clockwise on turf, the main course at Flemington has a circumference of 2312m and a home straight of 450m in length. It also has a 1200m straight course, starting from the left grandstand, re-joins the course proper at the top of the home straight, on which all sprint races are run on.

Feature Race

G1 Melbourne Cup (3200m)

The Melbourne Cup is the most famous race on the Australian racing calendar and has been part of the fabric of Australian sport and culture for more than 160 years. It is run over 3200m and attracts the best local and international stayers. The Melbourne Cup starts at the 800m of the straight track. The field of 24 will race for 1000m – and fly by the grandstand for the first time – before they get to the turn out of the straight and enter the Maribyrnong River side of the course. Once they negotiate that turn, they will race for another 800m before they get to the 1200m mark, where they navigate the long and gradual turn that will eventually bring them into the home straight.

Although the field has a long run to the first turn from the 3200m start, inside to middle barrier draws are useful given the large field. In the last twenty years, the majority of winners have come from the inside 15 stalls.

Other Races

Schweppervescence Plate (1000m)

The sprint race on the simulcast is the Schweppervescence Plate over 1000m on Flemington's straight course. Being drawn close to the speed influences, having the right horses to follow into the race and the track pattern itself on the day has more of an influence on the outcome of these races rather than any particular barrier draw.

BM96 Handicap (2800m)

The other staying race on the card is the Benchmark 96 handicap over 2800m. The horses will race for 600m before getting to the first turn, but again, an inside to middle barrier draw is helpful, but not essential, depending on the size of the field.

Furphy Plate (Melbourne Cup Day Plate) (1800m)

The Furphy Plate (Melbourne Cup Day Plate) begins from one of the fairest starting points at Flemington because the horses have a straight run of 600m and then only have to negotiate a gradual turn, so barriers are of less significance.

G3 The Hong Kong Jockey Club Stakes & The Amanda Elliott & BM90 Handicap (1400m)

The Hong Kong Jockey Club Plate for the mares is over 1400m and is from a trickier starting point, as the race begins from a chute and then the horses quickly gallop on to a turn, therefore, there isn't as much time for riders to find a position and barrier draws are more significant, with inside draws favourable. This is the same starting point that will be used for The Amanda Elliot and the Benchmark 90 handicap.

Dry conditions are forecast in the lead up to Melbourne Cup Day and warm weather is expected on race day, so it's likely that the meeting will be run on a good track.

Lessons learnt gives Mullins an edge in Melbourne Cup

Monday, 4/11/2024

Irish trainer Willie Mullins is confident he learnt valuable lessons from the failure of his two French-bred stayers – Vauban and Absurde – in last year's Group 1 Melbourne Cup (3200m) at Flemington.

Mullins has returned for the 2024 Melbourne Cup on Tuesday (5 November) with the same two horses who were highly-fancied in last's year's HK$43 million feature but faded after they shared the lead at the 400m mark.

Absurde finished seventh, beaten nearly six lengths, while his more fancied stablemate Vauban was 14th of the 23 runners, beaten 13.35 lengths.

Vauban, with top weight of 122lb and pressing for outright favouritism, is in sparkling form with a third in the G2 Curragh Cup (2815m), a victory in the Group 2 Lonsdale Cup (3251m) at York and then a second to eight-time Group 1 winner Kyprios in the G1 Irish St Leger (2800m).

Mullins said Absurde, who won the Listed Chester Stakes (2879m) at his last race, ran a “cracker” last year and this time around he'll change tactics with both his runners.

“And I think the weather is going to play a big part in it and last year our horses weren't used to 30-plus degrees,” he said.

“Most people last year were going to award us the Cup before the race. It doesn't happen.”

A cooler day predicted for the Cup, the horses arriving in Australia later than last year and a change in race tactics are what Mullins sees as bonuses for his two runners.

Two British trainers also have top hopes in the race. Brian Ellison's Onesmoothoperator shot into Cup calculations in his Australian debut with an easy win in the Group 3 Geelong Cup (2400m).

And Harry Eustace's Sea King, having his first Australian race, qualified for the Cup with an impressive victory in the Group 3 Bendigo Cup (2400m).

Eustace hopes to emulate his brother David, now training in Hong Kong, who won the Melbourne Cup with Gold Trip in 2022 when he co-trained with Ciaran Maher, who has four runners – Circle Of Fire, Okita Soushi, Interpretation and Saint George – in Tuesday's race.

Maher said Okita Soushi and Interpretation had impressed him the most recently, and while he concedes Circle Of Fire needs to lift, he rates Saint George as a smoky.

Three Hong Kong jockeys have rides in the race. Zac Purton is on Land Legend, one of trainer Chris Waller's five horses – Buckaroo, Kovalica, Valiant King and Manzoice are the others - in the Cup, and rode the gelding to third place in the Group 1 Caulfield Cup (2400m) last month.

Buckaroo, a fast-finishing second in the Caulfield Cup, remains one of the favourites but the only slight query is running-out a strong 3200m.

Karis Teetan will ride one of the outsiders, Mostly Cloudy, for co-trainers Trent Busuttin and Natalie Young.

Andrea Atzeni returns to Flemington for his first ride in the race since My Ambivalent who was unplaced in 2014.

He has retained the ride for James Cummings, the grandson of the late Bart Cummings who trained a record 12 Melbourne Cups, on Zardozi who finished fourth in last month's Caulfield Cup (2400m).

Zardozi, who will carry 112lb, was the only Melbourne Cup horse to race at Saturday's Victoria Derby Day meeting and was a fast-finishing fifth in the Group 1 Empire Rose Stakes (1600m).

Atzeni said he expected the four-year-old mare to be competitive in an open race with her weight.

“She gave me a great spin in the Caulfield Cup and hopefully she will do well in the Melbourne Cup,” he said.

“She relaxed nicely and had a nice trip around and kept going all the way to the line.”

Zardozi is only one of four Australian-bred horses in the Cup.
