Overseas Expert Column by Brett Davis

LA DORADA shall be much improved for her first up second place behind TOO SWEET in the G2 at Ellerslie and is drawn ideally in barrier 5. Her natural speed should allow her to position up as the potential leader along the rail whilst the alternative speed crosses over from wider out. It's then anticipated she'll end up chasing the tail of TOO SWEET all the way to the post but I fancy she can improve enough to this time run her down.

TOO SWEET has drawn extremely wide out in gate fifteen but it may end up being a good place to be. Young horses are prone to shifting about noticeably upon release so it's better to be in clear air early with guaranteed space. Her win in the G2 over 1,200m was a faultless performance on the eye and if she further improves on that it'll take a massive effort to run her down.

TO BRAVERY BORN is a good looking son of SNITZEL and remains undefeated after two comprehensive victories. It'll be a different scenario for him today with a full sized field to compete against but he's definitely got the swagger and engine to be right in the finish. The key to his success is staying in contact and out of traffic congestion through the all import first half, and that job is in the capable hands of Blake Shinn.

TORETTO has more race experience than many of his opponents which may end up being extremely beneficial at the end. That being said, he made a mistake out the gates in his last start, the 1,200m G2 race, and unfortunately gave away to bigger start. If he can atone for that error by jumping well, and position up handy in the run, then I wouldn't be underestimating his winning potential and prospects.

SIERRA LEONE has had her three race starts well spaced leading in to this high class event and is certainly worthy of considering now she rises in trip. Her recent third placing behind REMALA over the 1,100m at Ellerslie was an honest effort after being help up for a portion of ground in the straight. She'll need to settle closer if she's to trouble the high speed leaders but she's very strong at the end when it counts.

Overseas Expert Column by Brett Davis

PROSEGUR has endured a strong preparation leading into this open 3yo contest and the booking of Craig Williams certainly catches the eye. With a hearty closing second place in the G3 followed by a tough on speed performance in the G2 Eight Carat Classic, she's now ready to win a black type race. She's yet to confirm she'll appreciate firmness in the track but I'm give her the chance to prove that she can.

BOURBON PROOF notched up his maiden victory with an all the way win last start which followed two excellent minor placings in good quality events. He's another highly progressive individual by American sire JUSTIFY who appears to have plenty of rating points in hand. With a familiar jockey aboard in Michael McNab it's difficult to envisage a finish without him involved, although he'll probably be ridden with more initial patience this time around.

TUXEDO has only been defeated once from his three career starts and it came after a touch of keenness last start. He won the G3 Wellington Stakes prior when ridden cold and it was a far more professional looking performance. He's got plenty still to give and learn, and the low draw should enable him to find cover in the run, so he's therefore graded a dangerous unit to be taking on.

YALDI won the G2 Auckland Guineas over 1,400m last December on protest after being held up at a vital point in the stretch. He followed up with another courageous effort when finishing third at his following outing over the 1500m. There are no concerns regarding track conditions and he'll be one of only a couple racing up on speed, but the query appears to be running out a strong mile.

DEALT WITH won a maiden at Te Aroha on debut and a 3yo 1,400m race on a good ground two weeks later to remain unbeaten. The test however really comes today for this smart looking son of ACE HIGH as he rises in class and distance to 1600m. The issues with the mile appears achievable, however, the class factor remains up for debate, but in all likelihood he's going to get all favours in the run.

Overseas Expert Column by Brett Davis

CROCETTI hasn't quite found the top of his game following a three-month break but he wasn't far off it recently in the G3 Concorde Stakes. With fitness now peaking, and a liking for this course and trip, he all of a sudden comes right back into winning calculations after drawing the coveted inside gate. With an economical run in transit therefore anticipated we should see him launching back to somewhere near his very best.

ALABAMA LASS is right amongst the top echelon of 3YO fillies going around this season which was confirmed by her runner up finish in the G1 New Zealand 1000 Guineas last November. She's been freshened for her return to racing over the 1,200m and arrives exceptionally well placed at the weights. Whether she's at the top of her game for this opening effort remains to be seen, but she's potentially as good as they come so whatever defeats her should win.

WAITAK has drawn wide and can often be slow to exit the barrier stalls so he's therefore a risky customer. However, on his day he's capable of dishing up a fast finishing storm which is precisely what he delivered when winning this G1 event last year. He'll adore the strong tempo that's expected, and didn't handle the cut in the tack last start, so if he steps cleanly he can be a genuine threat.

BABYLON BERLIN has been a high quality performer for many seasons and won the G3 Concorde Stakes recently with an all the way front running display. She's been chasing G1 success for quite sometime now and has been a runner up on three separate occasions in the past. She can handle all types of ground but is best when it's good to firm, which is precisely the case for her today.

SACRED SATONO is also still to win at the highest level but he's in excellent form after a super run in the G1 Telegraph Stakes at Trentham last start. No one would deny him G1 glory, but he'll have to do it the hard way following the awkward looking barrier he's received. However, there's a chance he finds a midfield position with cover throughout which could enable him to work into the race at the right time.

SELECTIONS: 3. CROCETTI, 12. ALABAMA LASS, 1. WAITAK, 9. BABYLON BERLIN & 5. SACRED SATONO

BABYLON BERLIN and MERCURIAL have drawn the inside and they should go forward and take up the running. BONNY LASS also has speed and will not be far away. SACRED SATONO may have a tough run from his awkward draw. CAPTURED BY LOVE and WAITAK will be at the rear of the field.

Track Analysis by Brett Davis

Ellerslie Racecourse is the home for racing in the city of Auckland and hosts several of New Zealand's biggest races, including the New Zealand Derby. As a racecourse, Ellerslie is an undulating track which hosts both flat and jumps racing. Ellerslie has a circumference of just under 1900m and a home straight of 380m in length. Races are run in a clockwise direction at Ellerslie, just like they are in Hong Kong.

Feature Race

G1 Railway Stakes (1200m)

The Railway Stakes is the group one feature at the Karaka Millions race meeting, the richest race meeting in New Zealand and a lucrative incentive for owners and trainers to purchase horses from the New Zealand Bloodstock sales at Karaka.

Run over 1200m, the Railway Stakes starts from the back section of the track where the field has a run of around 300m before they reach the turn to the side of the track. They'll then gallop along the long, sweeping side of the track before turning for home with just under 400m to travel.

Other Races

Listed Karaka Millions 2YO (1200m)

The Karaka Millions 2YO is run over 1200m, which is the same distance as the G1 Railway Stakes.

Listed Karaka Millions 3YO (1600m)

The other race on the simulcast is the Karaka Millions 3YO over 1600m, where the field will jump away from the 1600m chute at the top left corner of the track. They'll then enjoy a lovely long run along the back straight, giving them plenty of time to find their order, before getting to the turn off the back at the 900m mark. From there, they'll gallop along the side for another 500m before entering the home straight.

The rail will be in the true position for Railway Stakes Day while the reports from recent meetings have been that the track is in good order and there has been no leader bias, an accusation levelled at the course last year.

Rain is forecast for the day of the meeting, so it could be a wet track by the time of the feature races.

Flying New Zealand filly set for Group 1 success in Railway Stakes

Thursday, 23/1/2025

Outstanding New Zealand three-year-old filly Alabama Lass is poised to snare her first Group 1 feature in Saturday's (25 January) NZ$700,000 (approx. HK$3 million) Railway Stakes (1200m) at Ellerslie.

With Group 2 and 3 victories among her four wins, the daughter of Australian sire Alabama Express also has two seconds from six races for trainers Ken and Bev Kelso.

She hasn't raced since finishing a brave second to Captured By Love - who she will again encounter on Saturday - in the G1 New Zealand 1000 Guineas (1600m) at Riccarton on 16 November.

Unbeaten in all three of her first-up assignments, Alabama Lass will carry the 115lb minimum, just marginally less than the other three-year-old filly in the 11-horse field, Captured By Love, who has been allocated 116lbs and will be ridden by champion Australian jockey Craig Williams.

Captured By Love has two victories over Alabama Lass, who was a HK$584,000 purchase at the 2023 Inglis Premier Yearling Sale.

Ken Kelso is hoping for a repeat of history after his three-year-old Bounding won the 2014 edition of the Railway Stakes after also finishing second in the NZ 1000 Guineas.

"She trialled good the other day and she'll be going in on the fresh side and will be first-up after finishing second in the 1000 Guineas race," Kelso said. "I am very happy with her. She is very bright and trialled really good. It's all systems go."

Kelso said he soon knew front-running Alabama Lass was way above average when she won her first start by 9.5 lengths as a two-year-old over 1100m at Matamata last February.

After finishing second at her last start on a rain-affected track, Kelso is confident the Group 1 assignment is well within her grasp first-up at 1200m.

In a quality field, Danny Walker and Arron Tata-trained Crocetti resumes after finishing third to Babylon Berlin and Waitak - both will also run on Saturday - in the G3 Concorde Stakes (1200m) at Ellerslie on 7 December.

Walker said he opted to withdraw Crocetti from the G1 The Telegraph (1200m) at Trentham on 4 January because the track was too wet.

"But it won't be a problem on Saturday," he said. "He had a gallop in between races at Ellerslie last week to keep him up to the mark and he has worked really well. He is a lovely horse, a genuine racehorse who tries his best."

Walker hasn't underestimated the depth of Saturday's race and believes New Zealand has its best bunch of sprinters in years.

"There isn't much between them and it will probably be a bit of luck in the running," he said. "It will be a very interesting and exciting race."

Walker said the stable had decided to apply blinkers for the first time which they hope will add to his performance.

Bruce Wallace, who trains in partnership with Grant Cooksley, is confident five-year-old Sacred Satono, who finished second at his last start in the G1 The Telegraph (1200m) earlier this month, is getting better with age.

"He got beaten last time, but I'm happy with him and he is super consistent," he said. "And I'd like to see him race in Hong Kong."

Wallace said they had decided this year to keep Sacred Satono fresh and to the sprinting distances and believes he is a Group 1 horse.

Among the many chances are last year's winner of the race, the Lance O'Sullivan and Andrew Scott-trained Waitak, who has been declared fit after an uncharacteristically poor performance at his last start in The Telegraph (1200m) at Trentham.

O'Sullivan said they believe Waitak, who has drawn the outside barrier, will be better suited on the turning Ellerslie track.

"We are happy with him and we certainly wouldn't be lining him up if we didn't think he was well," he said. "We were disappointed with his last performance and he is certainly better than that."

Blake Shinn flies in from Australia to ride another of the fancies, Luberon.
